OFINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"The answering would have done cresit to students in any college in the world. The system at Orwell House may ightfully claims a precedence for irtellectual power very far over all the private establishments in these colonies, and, for the depth, and variety, and elegance of the education imparied. Such an examination places this ladies semi-nary on an equality with any institution, however high, in Europe."—Editorial report of the Christmas examination, in Fuerman's Jounnal, 25th December, 1888.

"This seminary appears to take a higher range than we had reason previously to hone the colony afforded. It is gratifying to observe that the important task of instructing the future mothers of the colony is elegant and useful sequipments in the efficiently taken up by Miss Moore."

acquirements is so efficiently taken up by Miss Moore."

—Report of ditto in Newcastle Chronicle, January 1st, 1st.9.

"Last Tuesday the pupils of Orwell House were publicly examined. Such a straightforward course speaks infinitely more than merely pretentions paffs. The only test of effective education is the bar of public scruttay. The drawing-room was almost inconveniently crowded by our most distinguished citizens. For upwards of five hours the acquirements of three classes were severely tested. An expression of wosder and admiration was prevalent amongst all the company. We could distinctly hear the frequent-observation—that such efforts did real bonour to Australia. The profound depths of science were judiciously blended with the more attractive acquirements of the arts. Such a perfect programme of education consums the claims of this establishment to the very highest rank,"——Report of last Christmas examination, in Empins, 29nd December, 1859.

"The pupils were rigorously examined in geometry and the working of problems, in some of the more difficult branches of physics and physical astronously, in the nae of the globes, in geography, universal history, chronology, and permanship. The pupils gave a concert, which was well received. The result of the examination seemed to give the fullest astistaction."—Report of ditto in Soutanne Cross, 24th Decomber, 1859. the examination seemed to give the fullest satisfaction."—Report of ditts in Southers Cross, 24th December, 1859.

"The papils were examined for six hours in the more popularly understood principles of geometry, conic sections, natural philosophy, and natural history, with which they appeared quite familier. Their proficiency was tested in history (ancient and modern), the chief dates of chronology, grammatical snalysis, architecture, schools of continental painting, in all of which the young ladies evidenced careful instruction. The British constitution, colonial statistics, extemporaneous conversations in French, and translations from Telemanchus, constituted aleading feature, in which the pupils acquitted themselves in a highly creditable manner. The young ladies played elegant pieces on the piano and futins, accompanied by singing. The drawing and penmanship were greatly admired. The appaches rooms were crowded with visitors, amongst whom we noticed several clergymen. The asswering draw repeated marks of approbation, and sarprise was expressed at the nausual range of study."—Report of ditto in Funs-Mark Journal, 34th December, 1859. PHEROUS.—The third shipment of this most valuable preparation, for the Read and Hair, has just been imported by W. H. GLOVER, of Sydney, who has been appointed sale agent for Australia and the calonics.

In introducing any new article, it is customary and indeed necessary to make a few remarks respecting it, by way of giving it publicity; in doing so, I shall merely state one or two of the leading properties of this medicated compound.

Professor Barry's Tricopherous has been patronised and Area compound.

Professor Berry's Tricopherous has been patronised and aloyied by the most eminent of the faculty. It has should be certainly of the most facilities for thirty years, and he feels great confidence in recommending its use to the ladies, gentlemen, and men of business in Australia.

This compound will be found the most effections wash ever introduced for thoroughly cleaning the head of securi and dandriff; it is also invaluable for beautifying ladies' hair. Independent of this, it possesses for the business man the most delightful reviving qualities, imparting great coolness to the head, and gives a freakness to the brain, after clear application or study, which can only be appreciated by the experience of its application—and is so destrable in the dimattee.

With these few remarks W. H. G. feels convinced that it only needs "one trial"—as it will speak valuess for itself.

In order to facilitate my avancement the second.

liseif.

In order to facilitate my arrangements throughout the colony, I have appointed Mr. JOHN PEAR3ON, Georgestreef, Sydney, mar the Royal Hotel, wholesale and retail agent, to whom I refer the trade for their supplies.

WINDSOR.

[FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.]

POLICE OFFICE.—SATURDAY.—Before Mesara. Ascough, G. Rowman, and Day, Justices of the Peace. Samuel Sullivan was brought up in custody, under a warrant, charged with an assault upon Roderick Heffernan. Mr. Walker appeared for complainant, and Mr. Coley for defendant. It appeared the parties were residents of Cornwallis, that they met each other on the high road leading to Windsor on the 11th instant, Heffernan driving his team on foot, whilst Sullivan was in a cart. When the latter had passed a little way, all at once he jumped out of his cart, ran back towards Heffernan, taxed him with finding his coat, and then telling him he was a better mun than Heffernan, and struck him violently on the face. A fight ensued, when Mrs. Heffernan ran to the assistment of her husband, and, after a little white, another party came up and took Sullivan away. The Bench found defendant guitty, but, as he had already been confined three days, cessened the penalty to ten shillings and costs.

CRICKET MATCH.—On Tuesday last the return shillings and costs.

Calcarn March.—On Tuesday last the return match between eleven Richmond players and the same number of the Wirdsor Union Club took place, when the Richmond players came off victorious. The following were the results: —Windsor: Ist innings, 51; 2nd innings, 24; total, 75. Richmond: 1st innings, 61; 2nd innings, 15; total, 76; with six wickets to go down. As Windsor won, on the previous occasion, a conquering game will have to be played.

wickets to go down. As Winisor won, on the previous occasion, a conquering game will have to be played.

The PUNY DUES.—In reply to the petition of the inhabitants of Windsor and Richmond to the Government on the subject of the heavy charges for ferry dues at Windsor, Mr. Walker, solicitor, has recived a letter from the Treasury enclosing the Solicitor-General's opinion on the matter as follows:—The Solicitor-General observes, "that the reasonableness of the charges depends on so many local circumstances, such as cost of construction and maintenance of the ferry, rates of wages, and many other circumstances, that it is impossible to advise as to the necessity for legislation in this matter on the petition alone. The petitioners, of course, would prefer a complete freedom from toll, but the Legislature has fixed the maximum amount, and nothing appears to Mr. Solicitor-General to be stated against the legal validity of the tolls." This is not at all a satisfactory way of dealing with the matter. The petitioners do not, it is true, deny the legality of the charges; on the contrary, they admit it, but say they are oppressive, and that the Act of Council requires altering accordingly.

The Waxruer.—A very sever thunderstorm, accompanied by violent wind and a heavy fall of rain, passed over Windsor last evening.

MAITLAND HORPITAL.—The annual meeting of the subscribers to this institution was held in the hall of the hospital, on Wednesday afternoon. Mr. E. C. Close, sen., in the chair. The annual report was read by the secretary, which stated that, during the year the expenses had exceeded the income; but this arose from accidental circumstances, the secretary being unwill and unable to fulfil the duties of collector. The following is the return of patients treated in the hospital from 1st January to 31st December, 1859—flath entablishment on 31st December, 1859—flath, establishment on 31st December, 1859—males, 282; females, 72; total, 35d. Discharged during the year: males, 249; females, 71; total, 32d. Died during the year: males, 27; females, 71; total, 32d. Remaining in the hospital on 31st December, 1859—males, 18; females, 2; total, 20. The accounts for the year were as follows:—Subscriptions, &c., received, £1293 9a. &d.; expenditure, £1314 7a. 4d.; balance due by the hospital, £20 18a. The report further stated that it had been asserted at the inquest held at Lochinvar, on the body of Robert Scanlan, aged seventy-fire years, that he was unceremoniously turned out of the Maitland Hospital; but, on enquiry, the committee found that this was not the case. The deceased was forwarded to Maitland from the Scome Benevolent Asylam, by the Ruy-Mr. Child, for the purpose of being forwarded to Maitland From the Scome Benevolent Asylam, by the Ruy-Mr. Child, for the purpose of being forwarded to Maitland From the Scome Benevolent Asylam, by the Ruy-Mr. Child, for the purpose of being towarded to the Asylam in Sydney, and when being removed for that purpose, he refused to proceed to Sydney, stating that he would return to Scome, and that he had 10a, per week of pension to live upon. It was thus that he left the institution. A complaint has also been made by a patient that he had not got sufficient food, and that what got sufficient to the hospital, surface and the secretary some temporary expedients will be re at once to open the line to the public.

CLEN QUINN.

[FROM OUR ORRESPONDENTS.]

NAOMI RIVEN, January 11th.—It affords me great pleasure to state that the country for many miles, both up and down the river, never looked better. Rain has fallen istely in abundance; we have had three days fof it with very little internision, during which it poured down in torrents. For many years, I have not witnessed so much rain in the same period of time. The river Naomi is running up bank high and has supplied all the stations with plenty of water. The back part of the country abounds with water, relieving the pasturage on the front of the river, as suck now will feed on the back part of the river, as suck now will feed on the back part of the river. A great quantity of sheep are passing here, on reach to the Bogan, belonging to the Bogan River Company. They have been purchased from the Messrs, Lloyd, Brothers, and are in excellent condition, and able to stand the fatigue of a man Juney.

Mesars. Lloyd, Brothers, and are in excellent condition, and able to stand the fatigue of so long a journey.

I have just been informed of the murder of a man at Old Ban Bas, a station of the Mesers, Koys, Brothers. Three men being living in the hut, it appears a quarrel originated, and one man has fallen a victim. One of the men, I hear, the principal, is in custody, and the police are in pursuit of the other. An inquiry has been instituted by Mr. A. Loder, of Galegal, but the result I have not yet learned. Our little township is going shead in the building line, and is in the march of improvement. Our lock-up is a disgrace to any Christian community, being no larger than an Indian wigwam, and a man, after undergoing forty-eight hours confinement in it, on coming forth, would have the appearance of a half-baked mutton pie. It is inhuman to fasten up in such a place even the worst of criminals.

Our neighbours at Warialda having petitioned the Executive against constituting Wee Was the head politing-place for the Gwyder, the inhabitants here have a counter-petition going the roundafor signatures. Wee Was asks forth the respectability of their and the surrounding neighbourhood, together with the good order of their problements, wee was outrage of any kind is unknown here, and a judiciary second to none in the colony. We certainly cannot boast of our antiquity, but our notions are not antiquated.

I have just been informed that the man murdered at Ban Bas was called Telfer. His head exhibited several wounds by some sharp instrument, supposed to be a tomahawk. The man's name in custody who stands charged as principal is Calahan, and I believe a native of the colony.

Mr. Brewn caps, the repeal of the Temperalities. Act of the Presbyterian Church, "while it might affect the property of seme if not all the churches in connection with the kyned of Australia, it could in no way whitever affect the property of the Socie Church," Jamison-street. Now, my charge against Dr. Lang was this, that while he well knew that the repeal of the Presbyterian Temporalities Acts would enable the procent trustess, or their representatives to alternate the property held in trust by them, he employed his influence and position as a member of Parliament to get those Acts repealed, that he might be enabled with impunity to use the church property in Jamison-street for his own uses, and leave it as an beirloom to his family. One of the Presbyterian Temporalities Acts was passed to enable him to mortgage the clurch property for the repayment of £3500 lent by Government towards the excetion of the Australian College. The meany has never been paid; and Mr. Brown says, the repeal of these Acts "could in no way whstever affect the property of the Sector Church." Why then did Dr. Lang make the most streamons efforts to repeal these Acts!

I have no personal knowledges Mr. Brown, and it is not my intention to any of reply to his letters in future. The letters may be written by him, but they are evidently dicited by Dr. Lang. Their spirit is quite characteristic of him. My general rule with regard to him is neither to read or reply to any thing he publishes. He borrowed from Government & 5500 and collected from shareholders from the College were dustrically published by the self-denying John Dummero Lang, D.D., Principal; but when the report of a select committee of the Legislative Council, on "Losse to the Australian College." ANN'S PATENT INDESTRUCTIBLE SAPES—
We have the pleasure to inform numerous correspondents and inquirers who were present at the remarkable test of the fiverproof quality and wonferrial endirance of these Safes, that we are in daily expectation of a well asserted stock of the most useful sizes, by the ships Aloe and Medway.

This being the only manufacture of the kind ever submitted in Australia to a truthful public experiment of the most acarching description, is confidently recommended to the notice of all who require a reality great secure depository for deeds, papers, books, and valuable property. These Safes, besides being andoushedly frequent, offer Absolute Security against the burglar saided by any number of drills or other appliances; and against the picklesk, from the peculiar character of Tam's Patent Rellance Lock.

Particulars of sizes, prices, &c., can be obtained on application to the undersigned.

Extract from the Sydney Herald, of July 19, 1859, TESTING OF TANKS PATEST ERLIANCE SAYES.

A nevel and most interesting experiment was unde on Saturday last, 16th instant, by Mossra, Brash and Machonells, with the view of proving the interesting powers of a safe manufactured by the patence, Mr. John Tann, of London.

The trial took place by permission of the Government in the Botanic Gardena, on the recently formed ground near the water-aide, and under the inspection of the Registrar-General, Christopher Rolleston, Esq.; and the Master of the Mint, Captain Ward, H.E. Amongs those present we observed for Smith, University Professor of Chemistry, Mr. Joseph Trickett, Superinteudent of Coning Papartment, Royal Mint, (acting on this occasion for Captain Ward), Mr. John D. Gibson, secretary General, Mr. Joseph Trickett, Superinteudent of Coning Papartment, Royal Mint, (acting on this occasion for Captain Ward), Mr. Hobert Hunt, Mr. Elliot Knipe, Royal Mint, Mr. John D. Gibson, secretary General Assurance Company, and a considerable number of gedience convected with the banking and meroantile interests of Sydney.

The safe was twenty four inches high, eighteen wide, and eighteen deep, the interior chambers being fitted w.ta a steam generating composition, the motisture from which, on the safe was twenty four inches high, eighteen papers, and captain and enters high the motistic papers, and containing the whole damp and humid. Several account books, proteel papers, and counts of the parties present, who were witnesses to the v-rious articles being inserted. Between the leaves of one of the sacount-books was placed a £5 note of the Bank of New Sou't Walss, and seven feet high, and the various articles having been duly examined, the safe was looked by Mr. MacDonald and the keys handed to Mr. Trickett. The safe was then placed on a brick basessent elevated about a foot and a-ball from the ground and the safe received with the saire comin be observed resting in the suidst of a body of flame, as if defaut of the furious element which raged around.

In shout half an hour the heat became excessively powerful; the flames being in a clear mass, and awayed to and fro by the wind, caused the eafe to become red hot. At this stage of the experiment many doubted whether the safe could hear as tremendous a trial of its alleged firegroof qualities, as the ordead was evidently far more severe than it could be subjected to in any ordinary fire. An hour and twenty minutes having chapsed, the safe was removed from its trying position. Being extremely hot, and giving out a fervid glow of heat, it required to be cooled gradually with water, which for a time went off in volumes of sheam. The safe being sufficiently cooled, the key was applied, and it appeared to unlock with little difficulty. When the door was opened the contents presented the following appearance;—The vapour supposed to have been at bouling heat, had disadved the glue on the backs of the volumes, and thus loosened the leather, but no damage whatever was done to the leaves, which, with the exception of being damp, presented no appearance of being exposed to so severe a test. The water, ashed, although covered with steam, was going, and indicated 20 minutes to 3 o'clock. The bank note, with the book can oloting it, were uninjured.

We may remark that this artificial configuration was more trying and severe as a test than any accidental fire; and, from the way in which the fuel surrounded the safe, and the overpowering intensity of the heat, all present appeared perfectly satisfied of the fairness of the trial, and of the preserving qualities of the safe. As a proof that the outer caving was red hot, it should be stated that the most complete manner, and to the entire satisfaction of the numerons goutlemen who witnessed it, we feel warranted in commending the invention to the carnest consideration of overy one interested in the preservation of valuable securities, books sideration of every one interested in the preservation of valuable securities, books, and documents. NOW READY, WAUGH'S AUSTRALIAN ALMANAC, 1860, in crown 8ve, cloth boards, gilt title, price Sa.: by post, 5s. Sd.

Well, this is a holiday, fair,
Light-learted and morry we'll be:
The pushes and the misor may go to their isir,
But we'll go where we go, and the devil may care
We'll go to see what we can see.

Of course, we shell see children happy.

Pretty maldens not quite so contented;
For that is the age upon lifes chequered stage,
Ti at taxes the priest's and the wit of the sage,
While the love-knot remains uncommund.

And we shall see many a couple

Who have sayd from the toil of the year,
Wherewith to give much to their country's high,
And pledge deep the cup to that had upon earth
'i at no'er knew adversity's tear.

And we shall see many a face—
At the counter or counting house pale—
Fleaded o'er with the joy, that he felt when a boy,
When a boil say came and with it a new toy—
Now a pipe and a taukard of ale.

Sin,—On going this afternoon to record my voto in favour of Mr. Faucett, I learned, to my great surprise, that I had been robbed of my suffrage—some one having been before me and personated ms. I protested, and claimed the right to vote, but the worstly chairman (Mr. Williams), although he knew me wall, could do nothing for me—since my vote was gone. I really thought, Sir, that there would be an end of franchise stealing, since, with manhold suffrage, votes are chasp enough. Waverley Municipality.—The usual weekly meeting of this council was held in the Council Chambers, on Tuesday, 17th in-tant. Present: The Chairmen, Councillors Browne, Joseph Vickery, Simmons, James Vickery, and O'Brien. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. Councillor James Vickery, the Chairman of the Finance Committee, brought up and moved the adoption of a report recommending the payment of sundry accounts, amounting to 28 12a. 10d. The report having becen seconded by councillor Joseph Vickery, was adopted. The following notice of motion for consideration at the next meeting was then handed in by councillor Browne: "That councillor O'Brien's gratuitous offer of a house in Waverley Creacent for two months, as a Council Chamber, be secepted by this council." A letter having been handed in, was read by the council clerk, from Charles St. Julian, Each, president of the Waverley School of Arts, offering the use of the premises at present occupied by that institution to this council as a council chamber. After some discussion it was moved by councillor James Vickery, seconded by councillor Joseph Vickery, and resolved." That the offer of the president of the Waverley School of Arts be accepted by this council." Councillor O'Brien then handed in the following notices of motion for consideration at the next meeting:—1st, "That a return be laid before the council at its next meeting. be accepted by this council." Councillor O Brien then handed in the following notices of motion for consideration at the next meeting:—is. "That a return be laid before the council at its next meeting, shewing the amount expended up to 31st December, 1869, in Waverley-street, and that such amount be placed to the debit of Bondi and Waverley Bards, in equal proportions; Waverley-atteet to its junction with Plood-street, being the dividing line between Bondi and Waverley Wards." 2nd, "That a return be laid before the council at its next meeting, shewing the smount expended up to 31st December, 1859, in Church and Vickerystreets, and that such amounts be placed to the debit of Waverley Ward, the said expenditure for the benefit of, and included in Waverley Ward." Councillor Simmons then gave notice of the following motion: "That the finance committee do report to this council what steps, if any, they have taken towards borrowing the sum of £2000, authorised by the Government and this council or Browne, and readved: "That tenders be advertised for compiling and preparing a map and book of reference of each ward of this municipality." Councillor Simmons having asked for, and obtained permission a notice of motion standing in his name on the business paper, was postponed for one week. It was then moved by Councillor Simmons, seconded by councillor Browne, and resolved:—"That all bills and receipts from the commencement of this municipality to the 31st December, 1859, be laid on the table of this council forthwith." This terminated the proceedings, and the council then separated.

The same journal says:—From the Nepaul frontiers we have some further news connected with the insurgents who have just sustained a sayser reverse at the hands of Lieutenant Roddy, set a place called Betwa, or Karla. Lieutenant Roddy, had with him 200 ayonets and cighty sabres, when he found the enemy in line watting to receive him. He, therefore, threw out akirmishers to his right, keeping his cavalry on his left, and tried to get the rebels to break into the open ground. They fought for a short time, and then fied much the jungle; a few who did try the open ground found they had made a mistake, for they were immediately cut up by the sowars. The police killed over twenty of the rebels, and burned down a new camp they had just erected. No one was wounded amongst the police, so it was a very good morning's work, the police returning by two p.m., having marched about twenty-four miles altogether. Lieutenst: Hill and Coserat are on their road to Perstampore, and Lieutenant Smith remains at Sidhonia Ghat. The latter officer patrolled up the Sonar valley a few days ago, but found no rebels. Mummoo Khan, it is reported, has been disgraced by the Begum, because he would not attack our troops. Indeed, the esuase of the insurgents may be considered as entirely lost, there being every hope that the present season will for ever close the campaign against the rebels, wherever they may be located."

[FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.]

BRISHAME, JANCARY 18TH.—The Telegraph, with the English mail on board, arrivel on Saturday afternoon. The political news, after all, is of a very ordinary character, and by no means corresponds with the excited expectations that had been formed in regard to it. Captain O'Reilly was detained two days in Sydney waiting for the mail, and I understand that he had instructions from Mr. Paterson in case it did not arrive at the time expected, to wait another day for it at Newcastle, in order that no time might be lost in conveying it to Brisbane. It thus again happent alrough the courtesy of the Company that we are praying possession of our English letters and papers at least a week earlier than we would have otherwise received them. Considering that this service brings no peculiar advantage to those rendering it, even in these days of mail subsidies, but, on the contrary, must cause them inconvenience and loss, more or less, these repeated instances of attention to our interests on the part of the Australasian Steam Navigation Company ought to be, and no doubt are, properly appreciated.

The number of bales of wool exported from the three ports of Queensland during last year amounted to 16,878.

In the Courier's estimate comparisons are made with the exports from the Clarence, Richmond, and Tweed Rivers: but as we have nothing to do with these places it seems useless to complicate the account with them. Henceforth we can confine our trading statistics strictly to our own territory, and our financial position will be the easier understood by so doing.

The forthcoming elections are already beginning to excite some interest. Various gentlemen are spoken of as intending to come forward for the constituencies of Brisbane sno I possich, as well as for the electorates of Brisbane sno I possich, as well as for the electorates of East and West Moreton and other places; and I have reason to believe that in some cases, if not in all, the names mentioned are not put fotward without authority. Indeed, it is already quite clear that there will be plenty of candidates, and I anticipate a pirited contest in most of the electorates.

We have had very hot weather of late; but the last two or three days have been cooler with a south-east wind. The heat was of a peculiarly fierce dry character, and several sudden deaths have been caused by it. On Friday a man named John Bullock, at work on the I pswich road, near Woogaroo, was suddenly struck down, falling on his hands and knees, and although such assistance as was at hand, was immediately afforded him, he died an hour and a-half after he was seized. At I pawich a woman named Mary O'Connor, in the employ of a Mrs. Kelly, suddenly fell down in a fit on the threshold of the door. The medical evidence brought forward at the inquest attributed death to apoplexy induced by the heat of the weather and irregular habits. On Saturday a young man named Samuel Southerden, employed as a clerk by Messrs. G. H. Wilson and Co. of Ipswich, also died from the effects of the hot weather. He had been down at the wharf, and on his return told another clerk in the establishment that he would not take $5 to go down again to the warf in such great heat. Shortly after this he complained of being very unwell, and spepared to be suffering from summan, to which he evidence, and in a rider cautioned the public against expoure to the sun in

TIMBARRA. [FROM AN EXPERIENCED DIGGER.]

[PROM AN EXPERIENCED DIGORE.]

SIR,—We strived here overland from Rockhampton at the latter end of August; the journey, though novel and exciting to a "new chum" like myself, was accompanied by no incident unusual to bush travel, worth mentioning to one long familiar with the bush. On our journey we heard great tidings of Tooloom, which was to surpass all other fields in weath and extent; but fresh from the experience of the frequent delusions and "shicers" of the far north, we preferred to jog on to the table land, as a more secure field on which to invest our labour.

We succeeded in obtaining a piece of ground which yielded us, for about five weeks, an average of £3 per week a man. We then went in search of another claim; in ot succeeding hereahouts we walked over to a "rush" between this and Tooloom, about seven miles from Tooloom. There we found about four hundred diggers, and several stores well stocked. The ground worked is a small running creek about five miles long, and a few tributary gullies. The gold is coarse and nuggetty; in the man creek there are a few good claims, but the chief timp ayment is in going about from place to place crevicing, the richest deposits being found in the open slaty bars and bottom. Two of us with a tin-dish panned out sixteen pennyweights the first day, the first day, the first will show how patchy and uncertain the ground

"MISSING."

CHAPTER I.

There is a scope of mystery in that word "Missing," at the head of a reward-bill, which makes it a great favourite with crime-and-horror-loving imaginations. Murder, objective or subjective, suicide, felony, traudulent insolvency, abduction, kidnapping, and a vague I know-not-what-besides, rash into the mind when, over the shoulders of a gaping growd, we first read the fat, black capitals at the top of the placard; and although the description of sex, age and station somewhat narrows our guesses' roaming ground, there is still enough of the indefinite left to bother our brains, at odd moments, for a day to come. These remarks apply to the meridian of the metropolis, where we can hardly pass a watch-house with-out seeing one of the notifications I have alluded to. Being so much rarer in the rural districts, they there excite a far more abiding spirit of speculation; and in the country the scene of this little tale is laid.

Oakby-le-Baron, a quiet, elm-shaded, eastern counties village, has recommenced its labours one balmy summer's day. The scythe is swishing through the long, dewy grass in many a meadow. The greensmocked, chubby little "crow-keepers," perched on gate and sille, with shrill voice and loud rattle, scare the cawing robbers from the ripening grain. Milkmaids and mistresses are busy in the cowshed and the dairy. The bees are buzzing, intoxicated with perfume, in the luscious besin-fit-ids. Wishin the village, every blue, fiap, cottage-shuter swung on its rasty hinges three or four hours ago, and the cottagers wives are now hard at work at their washtubs in their little gardens—the frothing sospauds look quite picturesque, laced as they are with blossom-laden rose-sprays, scarlet nasturtiums, and opal and amethyst convolvulases. The doctor's groom is spinning round and "slucing" the up-lifted wheel of the doctor's gig; the doctor may be seen, through his open window, breaking his fast substantially with bacon, eggs, and home-made bread, before he starts on his long ante-prandi

Thorpe Grange being only two miles from the village, the villagers considered it an insult to them, as it were, that the tenant should have been missing for a whole day without their knowledge or even merest suspicion. They soowled upon the imperturbable policemen, assiduously pasting up the bills with an unexcited air that showed that they had been all along in the secret, as men and women contemptuously defrauded of their due of gossip. Lost time, however, was soon made up for. Every tongue in Oakby-le-Baron was soon wagging about this mysterious disappearance, It was not, however, until the mail-eart brought that morning's Morton Mercury from the neighbouring market-town, that the thirsty golemenches were able to obtain any definite information beyond that contained in the placard; the constables mubbling their desire for further knowledge with a selfabily illegical—"There's the hill, and you can read, can't ye?" The Bercury, as I have said, broke up this official monopoly of intelligence. In the village itself the paper was only taken at the parsonage, the doctor's, the poet office, the Bell, the butcher's, and the forge. The kitchens of the first two, the counters of the third, the bar of the fourth, and the open windows of the hist two, were specifily besleged by crowds eager to know what "it's paper" said about the matter. The rector's copy, of course, had to be carried into the lib

Before noon it is candled over with a crisp crust of supplementary circumstances, and half the village is out searching copse and pond, in quest of the more than and the hundred pounds. The policie are out again, too; but they don't beat about Oakby, having quietly exhausted that ground the day before.

It is time now to say a few words about Mr. Dennis' "antecedents."

A few months before the date from which my story starts, he had taken, as the Mercury has informed us, Thorpe Grange: a gloomy mansion of dull red brick, with little windows and lanky gates of curiously twisted ironwork, yew-shaede and try-clad. Indignity, it was only second to the half, having a paved court-yard, a weathercack-surnounted coach-house, a ten-stalled stable, a flwer garden, a kitchen garden, an ordered, a conservatory, a weeping when Mr. Dennis took it, and evwerthing in it and about it had gone to rack and ruin. The roof, stript here sand there of its lead, was full of teaks. The walls were gloosey with slug aline without, green with damp elime within. The windows were broken and thickly curtained with colowbs. The floors in many places had mouldered into touchwood. Inside and out the pain had peeled off, pitting wainsoot, door, and window sill with broken blisters. The flower-garden was a moist mase of alipperry, worm.dimpled paths, box borders shot up into hedges, stagnant fountains, green, parswling, shattered statues, rotten trellis-work tumbling from the crumbling plaster of toppling arbours, stray, straggling winesot, door, and window sill with broken blisters. The flower-garden was a moist mase of alipperry, worm.dimpled paths, box borders shot up into hedges, stagnant fountains, and the path of the path of the path of pond-like quiet. The ladies were as reserved, Mr. and Mrs. Griggs as reticent, as of yore.

Chapter II.

Five years had gone by. It was Christmas time, and the snow lay deep upon the ground. Not only on the ground: the hadges bent beneath its weight; it turned the sliced haystacks into huge twelfth-cakes, decorated with pitch-fork ornaments, and cutting up for giants; it nestled in each angle of the church-tower, and robed the belifty-window's russty bars; roofs were no more of thatch, or slate, or tile, but powdened slabaster. Fretty little Oakby looked pure and happy as a new-made bride in its spotless, glittering winter-garb; but the snow clung like a shroud about the Grange. Doubly corpse-like did the dim, dremy house—which even Charatmas could not waken into feativity—appear.

The lights of the Bell, shiming through and over its red curtains, cast a ruddy and a golden glow upon the whitened road. Its tap-room was full of revellers keeping Christmas Eve, when a horseman galloped up to the door. Merely stopping to drink a glass of brandy, to scoop the caked snow from his horse's hoofs, and to ask the way to the Grange, he galloped off again; leaving host, hostess, and customers—to whom his injury was soon communicated—in a state of brain-racking perplexity as to his business. He was literally the only person who, through all these years, had ever visited the Dennises. He was evidently in a great hurry. What could have brought him from Morton on such a bitter night; That he had come from Morton the oatler testifiel, having recognised his horse as a hack from the Morton Livery Stables. It was agreed, however, that he was not a Morton man, but talked more like a Cockney. Beyond the facts that he was sunb-nosed, short, and thin, end rather shabily dressed, in note, owing to the flying mature of his call, had been taken of his appearance. The Bell had instantly a score of clappers going. The Grange recovered all the pristine freshness of its mystery.

When the incognitus reached it, the great gates, as usual, wer grab at his own calves.

Having fastened his horse to a chain-post in front of the house, he was usbezed into the hall, and told to wait whilst Sam went into the library to announce or the house, he was usered into the library to announce him.

'Missus 'Il see you—come this way,' was the result of the intelligence.

The stranger followed his grumpy guide, and entered the room, a long, low, dismal apartment, dimly lighted by a candle lamp, and a flickering fire, whose fiful brightenings and fadings caused the books that lined the walls to appear now leaping from the gloom in rank, and then again retreating, and made the quaint old furniture of dull dark oak fing weirdest abadows on the floor.

At the table sat Mrs. Dennis, waiting in some surprise to hear her visitor's errand. Marion, too, had put down her book, and looked at him with wondering cyes.

"May I hask you, marm," he began abruptly, unfolding at the same time a yellow copy of the rewardbill, "if this 'ere reward that you hoffered ever so long ago 'olds good still' I'd 'are gone to Inspector 'Arrison accordin' to the directions, but I heard in Morton that he'd left these parts. So, as I heerd, too, that you was still livin' 'ere, I've come, you see, to you, Marm."

bring her back her 'usband sate and sound tomorser-and then you'll 'ave a merry Christmas,

The promise was soon given, and set forth in writing. The stranger put it into his pocket-book and departed as mysteriously as he had come, and on the following afternoon a post-chaise passed through Oskby with ta o travellers in it. They alighted at the Grange, and presently the cosch returned with one.
Next morning a rumour ran like wildfire through the village that Mr. Dennis had been found—that he was now at home—Bill Brown had seen him walking in the paddock. He Asd come back. He appeared at church upon the Sunday—a bent and sunburnt man—to the astorishment of all Oakby. Proud Mrs.
Dennis had dofied her pride with her widow's weeds, and looked quite humble with grateful joy. Marion mourned no more. Sulky Sam indulged in a semigood temper which can be best described as a moral marmalade, and Silent Suke so far forgot her character as to give me before the family left the village—which they did almost immediately after these occurrences—the very little of this strange story that I could not have obtained from extra-Grangic sources.

I might have made it more probable by making it less true; and would unravel it to my reader's satisfaction, had I ever been able to do so to my own.

Another feeling of the same nature would contitibute its influence in the same direction. In such a struggle as we have supposed England would have the support of all liberal opinion throughout the whole civilized would. Here and there an ultramontane enthusiast, or a professed adherent of despottem, might try to raise a petty argument against us; but, on the whole, the generous symmathies, and the natural instincts of all thinking men in all countries, would be with us; and, though these are no substitutes for material strength, they are the greatest aids to material strength that can imagined. They are a daily encouragement to those on whose side they are, and a deliy encouragement to those against whom they protest.

The conclusion to be drawn from these considerations is a plain simple one. We should not be deterred from doing anything which we believe to be sight from any kind of terror or peuts. The strength of England being a strength that is based upon opinion, the mest courageous is at this moment really the prudent course for her. By being false to liberal opinion in a moment of trial, she would lose the sympathies, she would excite its animosity, she would lose her moral power. We have now one of the greatest opportunities ever afforded to us of strengthening our moral influence. We have the advocacy of Italian freedom thrown almost exclusively into our hands. Prussis excepted, the great Continental States must be unfavourable to it. The French Emperor has told us what he wishes, and we know that no one else wishes it. It is with us to take such steps as may be in our power for obtaining—we had nearly said for preserving—the freedom of Central Italy; and it is indisputable that, in so doing, we shall incidentally, but greatly, strengthen ourselves.

They have been opened about a fortnight. There are but a few people there at present, but all are doing well. There is a scarcity of rations at present, but there will very soon be stores there. I saw this night a sample of fourteen ounces got by two men, which was brought into Cooma, and bought by Mr. Morris Harnett, of Rose Brook, iron where I write. The field will pay for miles; it is supposed to be forty miles payable. The gold is shorty and maggety; some of the maggets weigh in the sample half and quarter ounces, some less, but bright and clean; it is a beautiful sample. It will be in Sydney next week. This is no puff, or like the Fitzroy? all the psople there are doing well. I hope for the benefit of poor and industrious men they will not let this pass them, for here is the gold—let them come and they will nover repent it. SATURDAY, JANUARY 21, 1860.

THE Great Eastern has certainly tasked the patience of its proprietary as well as of the public. Instead of being able to make an in-augural trip to America in the year 1859, and bring in some revenue, as well as afford a fair trial of its practical commercial capacity, it is condemned to be laid up all the winter in Southampton water, and to be for months more in the hands of the artificers, before it can be prenounced fit to venture to sea with the vast prenounced it to venure to sea with the vast freight it is capable of carrying. This delay, however trying to the patience and pockets of those who are personally interested, is only a part of the cost of introducing great novelties. It was so with railways; it was so with subma-ring telegraphs, and it will be so with every rine telegraphs; and it will be so with every great invention which makes such an immense stride in advance of ordinary custom as to lose the b-nefit of experience, and to necessitate an almost entire dependence on foresight and cal-

The Great Eastern was so different from every other ship that had ever been built before, that it was not safe in constructing her to copy anything. In all respects it became necessary to design every part with special reference to her peculiarities, and the novel combination of form, strength, power, and capacity had to be considered and the power. combination of form, strength, power, and capacity had to be considered, as well as the separate excellence of each component part. It was so completely a product of theory—so remote from any possibility of test till it was actually complete, that it is hardly to be wondered at if, complete that it is hardly to be wondered at if, complete that it is hardly to be wondered at if, and with that was notwithstanding the intense study that was bestowed upon it, some errors and oversights and miscalculations should have been found to have been committed.

The short coasting trips, from Gravesend to Weymouth, from Weymouth to Holyhead, and from Holyhead to Southampton, limited and insufficient as they have been as thorough tests have still done a good deal towards reducing the element of uncertainty as to the vessel's practical powers, and making apparent what she can do and what she cannot do.

In the matter of strength, she may be con-

In the matter of strength, sae may be considered a success, this point having been unintentionally subjected to perhaps as severe a test as was possible, short of absolute wreck. Her tubular structure enabled her, at the time of her launch, to bear being supported at only two points on her keel without any danger of bend-ing or breaking her back. And the violent explosion of the water-jacket of the paddle funnel showed that she could resist a concussion that would sink a man-of-war.

In respect, too, of the facility with which she can be handled, the Great Eastern is a decided success. Her great bulk has not made her clumsy or unmanageable. Of course she requires sea 100m, but she is re-ported to obey her helm with as much alacrity

The ladies will regret to hear that the Great Rastern cannot guarantee an immunity against sees sickness. The motion, of course, is vastly diminished as compared with vessels of ordinary size, but on the journey round from Holyhead, she rolled so very decidedly on encountering the heavy swell of a beam sea, that many of the visitors on board were fain to beat a retreat to their berths.

One serious mistake has been discovered in the position of the paddle wheels, the axis of which is four feet too low. Either her displacement of water has been miscalculated or the diameter of the paddle-wheels was or the diameter of the paddle-wheels was made too large. The consequence is that her paddles dip too deeply in the water. On her trial trip she was comparatively light, and drew only twenty-two feet of water, yet even then the paddles had to be "reefed in" three feet. When fully loaded with coals and cargo, her draught of water will not be less that the trial triple in the less that the trial triple is the same think the same trial triple in the less that the trial triple is the same trial triple in the less that the trial triple is the same trial triple in the less triple in the same triple in than from thirty to thirty-one feet. To lift the paddle engines four feet higher and box them up, would take, it is said, six months, and cos from fifteen to twenty thousand pounds.

The most serious disappointment, however, seems to relate to the speed attainable, and to the consumption of fuel. On the trip round from Holyhead, an effort was made to get full speed out of both engines. On previous occa-sions the screw had worked better than the paddles, but this time the latter worked the best.
The paddles were made to revolve twelve and a half times a minute. But the screw which should have gone round forty-three which should have gone round forty-three times to have kept pace, only averaged thirty-eight revolutions. The trial, therefore, was not quite satisfactory. The speed attained was fifteen and a-half knots, or about eighteen miles an hour. It should be remembered that her bottom is very foul, and must therefore present great resistance, as she has been launched for two years without having been cleaned. But then on the other hand, she was lighter by eight feet than she will be when she sails in carnest. It is thought to be possible to get seventeen knots, or nearly twenty miles, an hour out of her for short time, and under favourable circumstances but not to maintain it for a voyage. Her average ocean-going rate, it is said, will not exceed fifteen knots an hour—a speed that has already been attained by some smaller vessels of very

The principle on which the Great Eastern was designed was that length and very fine lines give speed. This so far from having been disproved, has been more clearly proved than ever. But then the principle has been overtasked, and too much has been expected of it. The Great Eastern was so long, and so finely modelled, that it was thought that a very large deduction might be safely made from the ordinary proportion of propelling powers to tonnage. The big ship is greatly underpowered, as compared with other steamships. It seems almost absurd to say so of the largest engines ever yet turned out of the smithy, but it is a fact that if only the stew engines were in the Great Eastern, she could only be classed as having an auxiliary screw. The fullest ex-The principle on which the Great Eastern in the Great Eastern, she could only be classed as having an auxiliary screw. The fullest expectations as to the unpracedented speed would probably have been more than realised, if she had been fitted with engines possessing a power proportioned to the size of the hull.

But then another difficulty would have become aggravated, which is already of inconveniently large proportions, and that is the consumption of fuel. It is proved that to keep the steem well up requires not less than three steem well up requires not less than three hundred tons of coal a day. On a long voyage this requires an enormous space to be devoted to fuel. BRUNEL's idea was, that the ship should be able to steam out to Australia and back again without coaling anywhere en route. But it is clear that the Great Eastern cannot do this. Assuming that she can keep up an average speed of seventeen miles an hour on the whole voyage from London to Sydney, she would be forty days on the trip, and would con-sume not less than twelve thousand tons of coal. And to bring coal enough to take her home again, she ought to have twenty-four thousand tons of coal on board when she started, or her whole tonnage. To have increased her steam power, therefore, and consequently the rate at which she used up coal, would have been to have diminished her capacity for making long voyages without stopping, unless the greater speed attained had more than counterbalanced the rate of consumption of

The alterations which the machinery and other parts of the ship must undergo will cost, it is said, from fifty to sixty thousand pounds, before she will be thoroughly fit for sea, and able to get a certificate from the Board of Trade. Her first trip in the spring is intended to be to the Mediterrancan, and her second to to be to the Mediterranean, and her second to Portland, in America. After that, it will have to be decided whether she shall be placed permanently in any particular trade, and, if so, in what trade. It will probably be found that, in conformity with her original design, long voyages will prove more remunerative for her than short ones; for, in them, if she can but find her complement of passengers and cargo, her superiority will be passengers and cargo, her superiority will be the more decidedly manifest.

WHILE it is the duty of every person enjoying the protection of our laws to contribute to the support of Government, it is desirable that all reasonable grounds of complaint should be removed by such a distribution of taxation as shall proportion the contributions of the people to the direct benefits which they receive the State. We deny that property is fairly the State. We deny that property is fairly liable to any taxation, except for the cost which it occasions. To punish by fine those whose savings have attested their industry and economy, or to deter capitalists from the investment of their savings in the soil by penal exactions is contrary to every principle of political economy. as well as to natural justice.

The State, however, provides for the security of bargains, and guarantees all those exchanges of property which are made under the sanction of law. Out of these many lawsuits arise disputes which can only be settled at the expense of the State. Wherever the public Courts are liable to intervene it appears nothing but reasonable that there should be a provision made by taxation to defray the expenses out of the kind of property subject to litigation.

There are two methods by which this has been done. In some countries every suitor has to pay the fees of court, amounting to the estimated cost of justice. These are often large, and even ruinous, and of course amount to a denial of justice, as well as the spoliation of of their own in the meshes of the law. The principle of more civilised states is to provide for this cost out of the general revenue, and to for this cost out of the general revenue, and to relieve the suitor from all expenses excepting those which he voluntarily incurs in the prosecution of his claim. Practically we know that the expenses of attorneys and barristers turn out to be fearfully oppressive.

There are various kinds of property which may be thus fairly brought under the operation of our public finance. When persons come into property for which they never laboured, and of which they had no very strong expectancy, it seems to be reasonable that they should pay a proportionate duty to the State, which guarantees their contingent rights. which guarantees their contingent rights.

A Stamp Duty, operating over receipts above a low amount,—upon bank notes in colonial circulation;—upon bills of exchange; upon the transfer of shares; we recommended years ago. This would probably amount to a considerable sum even though the charge were considerable sum even though the charge were upon a low scale. Nothing would be more easy than its collection, and the danger of evasion might be obviated by making it worth no man's while to dispense with a security without which his property might be embarrassed hereafter. In this case the duties would fall almost exclusively upon that portion of the people whose rights are likely to be the subject of litigation in our district courts or in the Supreme Court, and by a moderate Stamp. the Supreme Court, and by a moderate Stamp Duty, we have no doubt the entire expense of this part of our public administration might be fully discharged. Propositions are made to restore the system of ad calorem duties. To this, however, we have the strongest objection. It offers the utmost temptation and facilities to fraud. It would be a serious jury to merchandise were every package transmitted to this country subjected to examination. In fact, this course has never been pursued in the colonies. The declaration of the importer, where these duties prevail, is accepted at the Customheuse unless some violent suspicion be entertained, or unless the officers wish to make themselves specially troublesoms. The conentertained, or unless the officers wish to make themselves specially troublesome. The consequence is that the valuation is arbitrary, and men pay just as much as their consciences induce them. Besides this, the more valuable articles are those most easily rescued from duty altogether. While cumbersome goods would be subject to taxation the more precious would only pay for the expense of evasion, unless the duty were so small as to make it scarcely worth the were so small as to make it scarcely worth the

No public revenue can safely depend upon the luxuries of colonial life. There are times when the depression would make them unavailing. Thus, every prudent Finance Minister seeks his revenue not only where it will fall equally, but also where the consumption is general and permetual.

It is easy to cry out "Tax property!"

In the first place the taxation of property can only comprehend the property invested in the soil. That is the very class of property according to the destrict of Posterior to the soil of the soi ing, to the doctrine of Protectionists themselves, which ought to be privileged and exempt. It would be impossible to reach the property of the shopkeeper, and the warehousemen, or the merchant, because this is uncertain in amount, both of value and bulk. The only property, therefore, that could be reached, would be the very class of investment which gives employment to the masons, carpenters, and bricklayers of the colony—which, in shor, cannot be imported—which etimulates the natural industry of a new country. The men who cry out for a tax upon property, surely cannot forget that they are repressing that very class of enterprise, which it is most desirable for the working classes should always be in vigour. ing, to the doctrine of Protectionists themselves property is rightly liable to certain class of taxation, but then it should be for its own protection and improve-ment. We impose a voluntary tax as an insur-ance against fire; we impose one by law for the paving and lighting of the city,—for its cleans-ing and its adornment. We are extending this principle to the country districts, and there can principle to the country districts, and there can be no question that everywhere fixed property should be liable to taxation for local improvements. It may be quite right to discontinue the system of local endowment from the general revenue. This will of course release a proportion of the general taxation. But to put taxes, to flow into the general revenue, upon expires.

general revenue, upon savings, is a violation of justice as well as sound political economy.

There are, indeed, times in the history of a nation when its fixed property must be taxed, because it is the fixed property which is exposed because it is the nixed property which is exposed to special danger from a foreign enemy. A tax on property is a war tax; and even when large loans are contracted for defence it is only reasonable that a proportion should be paid out of the fixed investments of the propertied classes. But to subject this kind of pro-perty to taxation for ordinary and regular lovernment is a gross abuse.

Such are our views. It is most desirable that at least some conclusion should be arrived at upon the subject of taxation. The danger to which property seems exposed, is probably exaggerated in the apprehensions of the timid; but there can be no question that it is a serious obstruction to colonial improvements and their obstruction to colonial improvement, and that it is depriving every working man in the country of employment and wages. There are no enemies to working classes more dangerous than those who sometimes pretend to protect them.

REPRESENTATION OF EAST SYDNEY.

DECLARATION OF THE POLL.

THE polling for the election of a member to serve in the Legislative Assembly, for the electorate of Sydney East, took place yesterday; and, though the election was strongly contested, it was conducted throughout in the most orderly manner. Precisely at seven o'clock, the Returning officer, R. Hill, Esq., presented hinself on the hustings, to amounce the final state of the poll at its closing.

The Returning-officer and, he might as well state at once, in order to do away with their suspense, that Mr. Faucett was elected. (Loud and continued cheering.) He would now read the names as they appeared on the voting papers, with the number of votes recorded for each candidate.

Peter Faucett 1346 (Great cheering).

Robert Stewart 1315 (Cheers).

It was therefore his duty now to declare Peter Faucett, Esq., to be duly returned to represent the electorate of Sydney East, in the Legislative Assembly.

Mr. Faucett came forward and was received with preplaned cheers. Heavil DECLARATION OF THE POLL,

It was therefore his duty now to declare Peter Faucett, Esq., to be duly returned to represent the electorate of Sydney East, in the Legislative Assembly.

Mr. PAUCETT came forward and was received with prolonged cheers. He said he now appeared before them in the proud position of their representative in the Legislative Assembly of this country. He was here now for the sole purpose of returning thanks to his friends for the great and zealous exertions they had that day made in his favour—and yet he could bardly say in his favour, as he believed they were as much made for the best interests of this city and of the country at large as for him. (Cheers.) He believed they had that day achieved a great victory, one great set of principles having gained the day over another. (Cheers.) Let the electors not suppose that this had been a mere personal contest between Mr. Stewart and himself; let them not for a moment believe that he was opposed to Mr. Stewart personally, but it had been a contest between two parties, one represented by Mr. Stewart, and the other by himself, both of whom were struggling for the maintenance of principles which they honestly believed to be for the best interests of the country. At the present moment, he could not find words to express his strong feeling of gratitude towards those who had so nobly exerted themselves that day in support of the principles they profer ed. He had seen them emploved during the day, going from place to place, and, with untiring zeal, otherwise assisting in the conduct of the election, and he could but congratulate them, as well as the citizens generally, and himself, upon the success that had crowned their exertions. (Loud cheers.) He must also congratulate his friends and supporters, as well as those of Mr. Stewart, for the very proper manner in which they had this day conducted this election. (Cheers.) Physhed exerted themselves manfully and zealously, but peaceably and quietly towards his friends, and he trusted that the good feeling thus ought to exist smongst

Seven drunkards were severally sentenced to pay 10s., or to be imprisoned twenty-four hours; and a woman who, while drunk, had made use of obsecene language was sentenced to pay 40s. or to be imprisoned seven days.

Margaret Hyland, an idle and disorderly person, found loitering in the streets at an unseasonable hour, was sentenced to seven days' imprisonment.

Lames Cannon was summarily convicted of having yesterday stolen a mantle, valued at 24s, the property of Alexander M'Ksy, of Googe-street, draper. Frederick Pegg deposed that he saw prisoner take down and walk off with the mantle; he followed and brought him back to the shop. Alexander Mackay, draper, identified the mantle as his property, and valued it at 24s. The prisoner, who is an old offender, offered no defence. To be imprisoned and kept to hard labour six calendar months.

Thomas Knight was brought before the Court by constable Kelly, charged with having avasualted and robbed Rdward Kemp. On his back, when apprehended, was prosecutor's coat, and in his pocket a knife, claimed by prosecutor. Bdward Kemp, teams having, claimed by prosecutor. Bdward Kemp, teams having a gentleman who was a scholar and an able man, and he (Mr. S.) had no reason to be sahamed of man, and he (Mr. S.) had no reason to be sahamed of man, and he (Mr. S.) had no reason to be sahamed of man, and he (Mr. S.) had no reason to be sahamed of man, and he (Mr. S.) had no reason to be sahamed of man, and he (Mr. S.) had no reason to be sahamed of man, and he (Mr. S.) had no reason to be sahamed of man, and he (Mr. S.) had no reason to be sahamed of man, and he (Mr. S.) had no reason to be sahamed of man, and he (Mr. S.) had no reason to be sahamed of man, and he (Mr. S.) had no reason to be sahamed of man, and he (Mr. S.) had no reason to be sahamed of man, and he (Mr. S.) had no reason to be sahamed of man, and he (Mr. S.) had no reason to be sahamed of man, and he (Mr. S.) had no reason to be sahamed of man, and he (Mr. S.) had n electors be expressed by the ballot-box only, and then the majority would carry the day without any necessity for personal differences. (Cheers.) The electors had thought proper to defeat him that day, and he was astisfied at their decision. They had chosen to elect a gentleman who was a scholar and an able man, and he (Mr. S.) had no reason to be ashansed of being second to hiza by so short a distance. Even the position he now held was a proud one for an humble citizen like himself — without that high standard of education that was looked for in a representative of the people, to be placed within thirty-one of a gentleman possessing the high mental qualities of Mr. Paruett. (Cheers.) He did not thrust himself before them, and did not come forward until he had been pressed to do so by a number of gentlemen with whom he had usually co-operated. (A voice: "Ben James!") No. not Ben James, for he had been one of his (Mr. S.'s) strongest opponents during this election, up to the present time, and if he had taken Mr. James's advice, he would not have been before the citizens to-day. But he had left himself in the hands of his friends, and they had urged him te continue the contest, and now that it had come to a conclusion, he had no more than the when there was no other candidate in the field; and he had felt at once that his prospects of success were but slight when he found himself opposed to a gentleman like Mr. Faucett, having a large number of supporters, and having all the qualities necessary for a representative. But he would thank them for the support given him, and would again go back as a private citizen, and do his duty in that capacity to the best of his power. Probab'y he could serve his fellow-citizens quite as well, and perhaps better as an ordinary citizen. He was perfectly satisfied, and to those friends who had come forward and shewn their confidence in him by recording their votes in his favour he returned his sincere thanks. He felt well pleased to see them in good humour, for he had never made it

Mr. FAUCHT, who, was received with great observable and said he had now to discharge them advanced and said he had now to discharge duty, in which Mr. Stewart and he would most fully concir, however much they diffused in other matters. He had to propose that the thanks of the meeting should be given to the Returning-officer Mr. Richard. Hill. (Cheers.) They had all seen throughout this election the firmness, and conciliatory tone with which he had conducted everything throughout this election. (Hear, hear.) He was sure they would agree with him, and he had no doubt Mr. Stewart would, that Mr. Hill was the prince of returning-officers. (Cheers.) He discharged his duties with firmness and good temper—(hear, hear)—and when he came before them he came with a smile and good humour, so that, however reductant they might be to display good humour, they were overpowered by him, and subsided into the most amiable feelings towards each other. Thay would concur with him in giving their thanks to Mr. Hill. (Loud cheers.)

Mr. Strawaur quite agreed with all that had been said by Mr. Faucett, and begged to second the motion that Mr. Hill was entitled to the thanks of this community. (Loud cheers.)

Mr. Hill. Lenc came forward, and was received.

Mr. Hill was entitled to the thanks of this community. (Loud cheers.)

Mr. Hill then came forward, and was received with loud demonstrations of approval. He said the figures he had read to them showed that the context had been no child's-play. (Hear, hear.) He certainly agreed with them that wherever there was a winner there must be a loser. He wished to impress on them the fact that whatever might be the state of feeling before the context, all ought to be satisfied at the termination, from the fairness that had been exhibited. He looked on this election as the best-conducted that he had ever seen since he had been returning-officer; and he should always look back upon it with pleasure, whether he continued Returning-officer or not. (Cheers.) He felt exceedingly gratified at the kind manner in which he had been spoken of by Mr. Faucett, and for their unanimous response to his remarks. He had had a long time of it—frem half-past seven in the morning till now—and would therefore bid them good night and retire. (Loud cheers.)

This concluded the official proceedings, and the hustings were soon abandoned. An enthusiastic crowd, however, posted themselves at the gangway by which Mr. Faucett had to depart, and despite his energetic resistance they seized on him and hainted him on their arms. He was carried by them for a hundred yards or so, when he got into a gig standing by, but his admirers took out the horses and whirled him away in triumph up past St. James's Church and down King-street to the Currier's Arms, the bead quarters of his committee.

SUSPECTED MURDER

FALL OF A BALCONY.

WEEN Mr. Faucett anived at the Currier's Arms, he entered the house and went up to the balcony, which was crowded with his friends and admirers. We understand the people had been warned not to crowd the balcony, as it might give way; but, in the excitement of the hour, the remonstrances were unheeded. Mr. Faucett then addressed the meeting, a vast crowd collected at the junction of King and Gastlereagh streets, from the balcony, and at the conclusion of his speech stepped back into the committee room. Mr. Robert Scott Ross then came forward, and had just commenced his speech by asying "Gentlemen, this is the most glorious triumph that"—when suddenly the balcony gave way, and its occupants, numbering at least a hundred, were precipitated below upon the pavement, a distance of some twelve feet, and upon the heads of the crowd standing underneath. Instantly there was a loud cry for "doctors," and almost immediately four or five were upon the ground. Nine persons more or less injured were at once carried to the shop of Mr. Kirchbaum, the chemist, next door to the Prince of Wales Theatre, and their wounds were examined. The most distressing case was that of an unmarried woman, named Murphy, a servant yesterday arrived from Twofold Bay, who received a compound fracture of her left leg, had her spine injured, and her head fearfully gashed. Inspector William Thempson received several injuries, amongst which is a dislocation of the kneecap, and a deep wound in the forebead; he also suffers from a violent pain in the right side of chest. Mr. M Kone, the well known cricketer, had his thigh excoriated. Mr. R. S. Ross fell with his body upon the iron railing of the balcony and received a most severe shaking, though no benes were broken. At a late hour he was pronounced out of danger by the medical attendant. Mr. Simpson, the barrister, had his thigh excoriated. Mr. R. S. Ross fell with his body upon the iron railing of the balcony and received a most severe shaking, though no benes w

the notice of the medical men are as well as can be expected.

We wish to notice the kindness of Mr. Kirchbaum, into whose shop a number of people were carried, and who supplied whatever was required for the relief of the sufferers Dr. C. Muller also made himself conspicuous there by his attention to the wounded. Considering the immense crowd near the Currier's Arms, and the weight of human beings plunged down upon the payement, and the excitement of the people, who swayed to and fro like reeds shaken by the wind, the casualties that have come under our sotice are fewer and less serious than might have been anticipated. We are unable to give the names of some of the persons who have been injured, as they declined to communicate their addresses.

ANNIVERSARY REGATTA.—The A. S. N. Company have very kindly placed the fine commodious steamship Governor-General at the disposal of the committee, to be used as flag-ship, and a further attraction is held out for visitors, as the splendid band of H.M.'s 12th Regiment will, through the courtesy of the officers, perform on board during the day. Persons enlisting in the fifth and eleventh races will bear in mind that it will be necessary to have their boats at the Customs boat-shed, Circular Wharf, today, at 2 p.m., for the purpose of being inspected by the committee, who have also substituted a race for gentlemen amateurs in watermen's skiffs, pulling a pair of cars, instead of the centre-board yncht race, which has not been filled up. The first prize will be $10 10s., and the second $2 2s., the entrances for which will take place on Monday night, at eight o'clock precisely, at the club rooms.

CRICKET.—The match to be played this day (to commence at one o'clock precisely), is between the New South Wales Eleven, namely, Messrs. Gilbert, Hilliard, N. and J. Thompson, Murray, Richardson, Samuells, Dickson, Kettle, E. Brown, and Howell, against a second Eleven consisting of Captsin Ward, Lieutenant Richardson, and Messrs. H. Deane, Kinlock, O. Lewis, T. Re-opening of the Vectoria Tarathe.—Afrangements have, it is understood, at length been completed whereby the play-going public of Sydney are to be, for some time to come, provided with a choice between the attractions of the more legitimate drains at the one house, and a succession of varied entertainments, of a less strictly dramatic character, at the other. With a view to this, Miss Mary Provost has been induced, for the season, to assume the office of manageress and directress at the Royal Victoria Theatre, where she will secure, and perminently retain, a full dramatic company, to be from time to time strengthened in numbers and professional ability as occasion may require. Amongst the accessions which the corps dramatique will shortly receive, it may be mentioned as already announced, that the celebrated Irish comedian, Mr. John Drew, will here shortly re-appear. Under these auspices the Victoria Theatre was hat night re-opened, when the popular comedy of "Nell Gwyn" was effectively performed before a rather thinly attended house. This evening will be presented the three-act historical tragedy of "La Tour de Nesle," a drama (by Galliarde) of intense interest, founded upon the frightful crimes which history records as having been committed by Margate of Burgundy, wife of Louis, king of France. The principal characters of the piece are,—the Queen, by Miss Provost: Lyonnet de Rournowille (under the name of Captain Buridan), by Mr. Rayner; Sualtier D'Aulnay, by Mr. Burford; Philippe D'Aulnay, by Mr. Palmer; and Count Savoisy, by Mr. Miran. The piece was brought out at London, and played there with great success for several nights. Miss Provost takes a complimentary benefit at this theatre on Friday next.

Postage Stamps.—Mr. Edward Muspratt, bookseller, William atreet, Woolloomooloo, has been duly authorised to sell postage stamps.

CORONER'S INQUEST.—The City Coroner held an inquest at the Captain Cook Inn, York-street, yesterday, on the body of a main named Stephen Forbes, aged about sixty years. The decessed came to the house in which he died (a board and lodging house) on Friday last, and appeared seaseely to know where he was—his mind seemed somewhat impaired. He informed the people of the house that he was going to Liverpool. He suffered from a severe cough, especially at night, and at three o'clock on Wednesday last he was found dead in bed. CRICKET.—On Saturday, a trial scratch match, preparatory to the match with the Queanbeyan eleven, to come off on the 26th, was played in the reserve in front of the Commercial Bank. It was intended at first to have been between the Goulburn eleven and the Young Australians, but finally, however, it came off between sides picked by Mr. Gillespie, and Mr. G. O'M. Clarke. The wickets were pitched at three o'clock, when Gillespie's side went in first, and scored 59. Clarke's side then handled the willow, notching 38. 67 were next scored on the side of Gillespie. Afterwards, Clarke's garty in their second innings made amends for their former bad scaring, exhibiting some first-rate playing. The batting of Maber and Clarke was particularly good, the former scoring 37 and the latter 23, both of them being likewise at the wickets when the match was adjourned. 77 were scored in this innings with only two wickets down, when it having reached seven o'clock, it was accordingly adjourned. Clarke's side having yet to score 12 to win, with eight wickets to go down.—

more to the United States. All the minor branches on the east bank have been successfully worked—those to the westward have not proved payable.

About a mile further you arrive at a ledge of binary granite, which crosses the stream, on rising of which you reach a long treeless that shelving towards the narrow deep watercourse in the centre, and encompassed by low hills to the westward, and nude granite masses to the eastward, forming a wide basin through which the M'Lood holds itrocurse. R was on this flat that the discoverer of the gold-field, sinking through beg soil and drift, obtained a rich prospect at a depth of six feet, on a seft white granite bottom. He was induced to try this spot from its being so situated as to retain gold, the presence of which was announced on every side by the formation, the wreck of a sandstone superstratum was everywhere evident, and veins of sandstone could be traced through the granites, partly altered and decomposed; quartx was scarce except in the secondary formations, but quartz pebbles were found in abundance resting upon the bedrock, supplied by the formations that had been destroyed by the degradation of the ranges. This place had been reached by a circuitous route of thirty miles, and was not then worked, in consequence of the distance from supplies or a human habitation. A party of seven men, having been subsequently informed of the character of the flat, were directed to the prospect hole, and sontrived to get and retain an extended olaim of 700 yards on the same spot; they have been working it for fifteen months, are still working, and are reported to have secured £10,000 worth of gold already by their operations.

Guided by the enormous excavations, you now follow the course of the stream for three quarters of a mile, when you deam that every foot of the entire distance was equally rich. The flat has been turned over to a depth varying from eight to fifteen feet for a width of a hundred yards. At the head, the creek turns to the southward, and you fellow it up a na

There were three days' races, and everything passed off to the perfect satisfaction of the multitude of merry makers.

On Briday evening, a ball given by the bachelous same off at the billiard room of the Bockhampton Hotel, which was attended by a large number, a fair sprinkling of the fair sex, and a majokity of gentlemen. The dance was kept in motion until Father Sol made his mind up to dawn upon our wearied countenances, and at an early hour each tired guest departed, seemingly highly delighted with the evening's amusement. En passant, I cannot help remarking on the stewardship of Mr. Everett, the landlord of the hotel, who deserves great praise for the manner in which the midnight feast was prepared. The supper was indeed excellent, "the table grossing beneath the weight of the good things of this life;" as some one says—even Soyer himself could not have found fault.

On Monday lust, a race dianer took place, which went off with great solar; the usual tosats incidental to such occasions were given and responded to. In conclusion, I may say that, from the happy faces I saw sround me during my stay at Rockhampton, every one spent a merry Christmas and looked firward to a happy New Year.

Thunderstorms.—Writing from Homebush, a correspondent says: "Thunderstorms of late have been very violent, especially up the country, where several accidents by lightning have occurred. They are not, however, of so frequent occurrence about Sydney, but last Wednesday evening, about 7:30 o'clock, a heavy thunderstorm passed over Sydney, from S.W. The lightning was vivid and lasted for some time. A tree at Canterbury was struck by the electric fluid, and shattered to pieces. No doubt the storm has done some damage in its progress.

D'Aldert's Album yor 1860.—We have been favoured with an early copy of this superb musical samual, which, for splendour, far surpasses all the preceding volumes, rich though they undoubtedly were, as works of art. It contains six values, avequadrilles, one galop, three polkas, and one polka mazurka; five of these are illustrated with exquisitely finished pictures by Branderd—the female portraits especially possessing that lifelike warmth of that and delicacy of colouring for which this artist is so justly famed. Several of the pieces are commemorative of the chief historical events of the past year. The music, although not abounding in very difficult passages, fully sustains the character of the smual, and has the great merit of being clearly printed. The volume would be an ornament to any drawing-room or select musical library. Mr. L. Mose, of Hunter-street, is the Sydney agent: Chappell and Co., of New Bond-street, are the publishers.

(From the Economist.)

We list week showed that the present practice of adjusting what is called general average was unduly unfavourable to shipowners, and threw upon them a greater burden than it was reasonable that they should bear. It will, however, be evident that the cases in which this hardship is felt are but rare. A "general average" has reference only to one rather peculiar species of loss. The amount of loss is only divided between ship, freight, and cargo, when the shipowner has voluntarily done some act ar incurred some expense to preserve the cargo and the freight. This is not very common. We shall now show that the shipowner obtains less than his due in a case of more frequent occurrence.

THE PREVENTION OF FIRES.

To the Editor of the Herald.

Sin,—As your valuable paper is always open to receive contributions calculated to benefit society, whether political, social, or moral, I would on this occasion, through your columns, call the attention of the municipal authorities to a great and rapidly growing evil which is being permitted, so far as I can perceite, without let or hindrance, the result of which will ere long be disastrous to the citizens of this fair city.

Heng a person of some observance of what takes place around me, I would state that great improvement has been effected in the city during the past year, for the streets of the city were never in a better state, thanks to some well merted and strongly written articles in the Herald. The much abused Botany Waterworks, too, has become a reality, for their silvery jets are now issuing forth, conducing to the comfort and health of the citizens in the heart of the city. No, Sir, it is neither of streets, waterworks, nor seacers that I complain—for these we have—but what I do complain of is that we are doing nothing to prevent our having, what would be in the highest degree ruinous to the citizens, a press fire; for who that is acquainted with the history of fires, and the devastations caused thereby, that does not shudder at the idea of having to witness similar disasters in this city, and be assured we shall, unlers something is effectually done to prevent it. Now, as the late Mayor has given us abundance of water and good streets, the present occupant of the Mayoral seat will cause his name to be remembered with respect by an endeavour to avert the calamity of conflagration, in causing the clauses of the Building Act to this end, to be carried out. There are, as I am informed, four surreyors of the city appointed for this purpose, and it has been alleged that those gentlemen have not at all times performed their duties to the satisfaction of the citizens.

Now, as I am informed his worship the present Mayor is a practical man, I would sug

I am, Sir, ONE WHO HAS SUFFERED.

FINGULAR DEATH.—An inquest was held at Mr. Horam's, Suiton Forest, before the district coroner, Mr. James Fützgerald, on the 17th instant, toucking the death of Philip Burrows, aged about forty years, which took place the same afternoon. It appeared from the evidence that the deceased had suffered illness for a length of time, and had been in a very debilitated state; that he had been very abstemious, but on the night previous to his decease he had partaken of part of a bottle of port wine with a friend. In the morning Mrs. Sarah Keefe, at whose house deceased had been residing for three weeks previously, found him lying on his back snoting. Thinking he was affected from what he had partaken of, she did not deem it necessary at that time to call in medical aid; but a few hours afterwards, finding deceased unable to speak, or to awsilow some tea, she sent for a medical man. It was then, however, too late. A verdict was returned that spoplexy was induced by excess in cating and is wine, to which the deceased, from previous abstemious habits, had been unaccustomed, as well as from the absence of medical aid when the deceased was at first attacked.—Goulburn Chronocke.

The Argus of 12th instant states that amongst the eleven persons who effected their escape from the Royal Charter by going sahore at Queenstown in the pilot boat was a lady, who would have gone on with the vessel for Liverpool, but she apprehended her near approach to confinement rendered it unsafe for her to run the risk. Be proceeded to her destination in the county of Tipperury, and was there safely delivered of a son, "who, with the mother, is doing well," Thus were two humm beings previdentially saved from a dreadful death in Moelfra Bay.

The share market has been pretty buoyant this week, and a fair amount of business has been transacted in the shares of our several companies. The fluctuations that have taken place have not however, been very great but the approaching half-yearly meet-ings of several companies have given increased firmness to the tone of the share market, and prices have generally an up-ward tendency. Commercial Bank shares have been in great request, and have advanced £2 per share on last sales. Union Bank shares are not quite so firm, and have declined 10s. per share. Australian Joint Stock Bank shares are

(From the Recognist.)

We had week showed that the present practice of adjusting what is called general average was unduly unfavourable to shipowners, and threw upon them a greater burden than it was reasonable that they should bear. It will, however, be evident that they should bear. It will, however, be evident that the cases in which this hardship is felt are but rare. Messrs. Durham and Irwin held their weekly produce sale this day. There was a good attendance, but purchasers did not seem disposed to advance on last week's prices. 158 bales were offered, a portion of which was wild drawn at the reserve prices. The narreels wild drawn at the reserve prices. bales were offered, a portion of which was with drawn at the reserve prices. The pareels sold were taken as follows: Fleece, from 1s. 7d, 1s. 10½d.; greasy 9½d. to 10½d., skin at 1s. 7d., clippings at 7½d. Kip bather 1s. 4d per 1b. The same firm have placed during the present week the S in diamond over Trigamon clip at 1s. §7½d., also the h. Y. C. at 23¾d.

Business during the week has been quiet, and the transactions that hav, taken place have been only such as were required to meet have been only such as were required to mest present wants.

FLOUR.—The market is firm, but prices continue the same as last week. The miliers quote fine flour at £20 per ton, and second-£18 per ton. Wheat has been in some request, and prices have slightly improved: the lawst quotations are 7s. 6d to 7s. 8d per bushed. 11 LIQUIDS.—Brandy continues in fair demand. And prices are firm. Martell's is worth tos 9d., and Hennessy's 10s. 6d. Rumis not quite so firm, and 30 o.p. cannot be quoted higher than 4s. 3d. to 4s. 5d. than 4s. 3d. to 4s 5d. Geneva is shall of s.d., and first brands of low strengths and small quantities are about 12s. 6d. to 13s. In wines the transactions have not been to any extent. Ale in bulk is in some demand, and Bass' No. 3 is worth about £7 15s. Porter in bulk is still dull of sale. Bottled beer and porter are without any alteration. A new brand is being quitted at 9s. 6d. per dozen.

TEAS.—The market is no better, and sales are with difficulty effected. The balance of the are with difficulty effected. The balance of the cargo of the Clara Novello, consisting of 450 chests of very ordinary congous, were quitted during the week at £5 11s. 6.t. per chest. Fair congons, ex Progressive Age, have been sold at from £6 15s., nett cash, to £8 5s. per chest.;

boxes 28s.
SUGARS.—The market is better, and prices are firm. The Company have advanced their quotations £2 per ton, and for pieces £3 per ton. In Mauritius sugars some small parcel-have been quitted at auction at rates not quite equal to these obtained last week.

RICE .- Our stocks here are small; but, as there is known to be a large quantity on hand in Melbourne, prices continue without altera-tion. Patna is quoted at £18 10s. to £19 per COFFEE is firm, and Manila has been sold at 7d. per lb. in bond.

OILMEN'S STORES,-At a recent sale by suction, at Messrs. Dean and Co.'s, the prices obtained for most articles were a sharle higher, but to-day the rates realised at auction were not quite so good.

SALT.-Liverpool salt is in fair deman !, at £4 15s. per ton; dairy salt is worth £7 to £7 10s, per ton.

27 10s. per ton.

CANDLES are steady. Belmonts and Nevis are saleable at 144d. per lb. The Company's quotation, however, is still 15d. per lb.

DRAPERY.—The market continues well stocked, and most articles of general drapery are consequently difficult of sale. Unless sales are forced, fair prices are maintained for those articles which are at present in demand.

Toracco.-Importers of negrobead continue to realise enormous profits, and unexpected ad-ditions to our stocks would alone affect the figure. Dealers, however, buy very cautiously, and are somewhat precipitate in moving off the article. In the present state of the tobacco market, we have, therefore, but little advice to market, we have, therefore, but the advice to give. Enquiries continue to be made from Melbourne as to our markets, but they are in-tended more to guide Melbourne buyers than any transactions with Sydney.

Mcssrs. L. E. Threlkeld and Co. sold, at their Rooms, City Mart, at auction, several invoices of oilmen's stores, Italian goods, and general groceries, at prices showing a slight decline upon former sales.

The same firm report private sale of a portion of the cocoanut oil ex John Wesley, at £31 15a. per tunt also, several targoes of Richmond and Tweed River cedar, at from 12s. to 13s. per 100 feet.

The cargo of Hobart Town timber ex Creole was offered at auction, but withdrawn in conscquence of the low prices now ruling.

2,8 Two bullock orays, teenty bullocks and gear, a sorse dray, draught and saddle horses, together with harmass, saddles, dee, and atores, to be taken at a wination.

23 So scidiom are good Darling Downs Stations in the market, that MORT and CO. feel it is only mecessary to advertise one for sale to ensure for it the attention it deserves. These runs are, however, well known to most northern squatters, and therefore require no detailed description of them. Those who are not so acquainted with them are particularly requested to wist and mappet them prior to the sale.

DISTRICT OF BLAGH.

Count added, and secured on the stock and stations.

Those splended stations. WOMBOBBIE and WOMOBAH, situate in the Bilgh district, about 60 MILES from DUBBO.

They cousist of fine undusting country, abounding in MYALL and SALT RUSH, and are beyond all doubt FIRST CLASS FATTENING RUNS.

The IMPROVEMENTS comprise overseer's cottage, shepherds' buts, ancepyrards, hurdies, &c.

With these runs will be sold 10,000 FIRST-CLASS SHEEP, full particulars of which will be advertised shortly.

"Stores, working cattle, drays, &c., to be taken at a valuation.

 Stores, working dattie, drays, etc., to be easily availation.

BT* These stations are so well known to the squatting public, that it is not deemed necessary to make any comment on them—suffice it to say that they are amongst the most valuable and REMONBRATIVE in TRIE DISTRICT. Their proximity to market, and their established reputation as fattening runs, are facts that ought not to be lost sight of. By the older members of the squatting community they will be more readily recognised as having formerly belonges to Mesers. KINGHORNE and CAMPBELLs, by whom they were most profitably worked. THE RAWBELLE STATIONS AND STOCK, well-known as one of the very FINEST PASTORAL PROPERTIES IN QUEENSLAND.

MORT and CO. have been instructed by Messrs. Berry and Holt to sell by public auction, at the Rooma, Pitt-street, at 11 colock, on TUES-DAY, 24th January, 1869.

That truly first-class sheep and cattle property, situated in THE BURNETT DISTRICT, and well-known as THE RAWBELLE STATIONS.

These spiendly runs occupy a vast extent of some of the very ficest country in the Northern District, and may be truly said NOT TO BE MORE THAN HALP STOCKED. They are very conveniently situated for water carriage, being only about 120 miles from Port Cartis, and for lattening purposes cannot be surpassed, and the general character of the runs is best tested by the fact that in adverse seasons they have kad fewer losses and larger increase than any other stations in the district.

THE IMPROVEMENTS comprise everything requisite for the residence of the proprietor as well as the full working of the stations, and are as follows:—

AT THE HEAD STATION.—A combrable verandah cottage residence, foored and shingled, with detached kitchen, &c., and enclosed flower garden; superintendent's residence, coverseer's and storekeeper's luts, and three hats far labouers; store, sunk dairy, well, and smith's forgo with all the necessary apparatus, shed and horse-vard, stockyard with nilk bails and call-pen, a large house paidock, and two large vegetable gardens. Also a large woodshed with rack press, and drafting yards, the latter capable of holding upwards of 20,000 sheep.

There is also a fenced standing yard at the washpool.

There are 10 out-station buts, with large dog-proof appling yards at each; as well as 10 gunyshs, with similar yards.

There are 10 onl-station buts, with large dog-proof sapling yards at each; as well as 10 gunyahs, with similar yards.

AT THE CATTLE STATION there is a good rerandah but, and dairy; a large and secure horse paddock; also an extensive and substantial stockyard, capable of holding 2500 cattle, consisting of eleven divisions, with swinging gates, and every convenience for drafting cattle; together with dotached miking yard.

With the Rawbelle Stations will be said the following stock:

35,000 SHEEP, more or less, and 2,500 CATTLE, more or less, and
2,500 CATTLE, more or less.

The SHEEP (of which full particulars will be published shortly) are qual to any in the district.

The CATTLE are a first-rate quiet herd, famous for weight of the bullocks, of which there are now a large number ready for the butcher.

"." About 30 working horses and mares, a few brood mares and young stock, together with tesms, drays, stores, implements, &c., to be taken at a vaination.

E2T The Rawbelle property is disposed of in consequence of the dissolution of partnership by effluxion of time, and Mr. Berry's immediate return to England. It is not only one of the Odest, but it has been one of the MOST PROFITABLE STATIONS in the Northern districts. Mr. Berry and his family have resided at Rawbelle for several years past, and therefore the purchaser will doubtless find a comfortable home. The fame of these stations and the excellence of the stock are so fully established that MOHT and CO, deem further comment unnecessary. An inapaction of both the runs and stock is carnestly invited. There is ample time for it prior to the sale; and intending purcuasers, by applying to JOSEP H. BERRY, E20, at Rawbelle, will be afforded
